Holmes Teachers Hold Third Meet of Year

The Holmes County Teachers Association met at the Lexington High School Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock for the third meeting of the year. Supt. J. T. Garland, of Cruger, president of the Association, called the meeting to order and devotional services were held.

Following the devotional, President Garland recommended a county field meet for the grammar schools of the county and Supt. W. B. Kenna, of Lexington, endorsed the suggestion. A motion was made and carried and the president of the association was given authority to appoint two committees to work with the county superintendent of education in rounding out a program and select a date for the field meet.

The different groups were then assigned to their rooms for departmental meetings and the instructing force from Delta State Teachers took charge. Miss Evelyn Hammett of the English department spoke to the English and History Department on the subject of providing impulses for pupils, her main theme being poetry.

Dr. Richard L. Gaylor, head of the Department of Science, addressed the science and mathematics departments on the subject: "The Enrichment of Life Through Study of Biological Science." A very helpful and practical address was made by the speaker. After his talk a roundtable discussion was held to discuss questions of interest to teachers.

The principal speaker at the general assembly was Dr. William H. Zeigel. His subject was: "How We Teach." A fine discussion was given as to how to understand children, the teachers gaining many valuable facts presented by the speaker. The meeting adjourned to meet again March 17.

Miles, Clem Hackworthy, Henry Johnson, Misses Ocie McLean and Julia Watson additional guests. The living room was lovely with sprays of burning bush effectively arranged. The club high score being held by Mrs. M. S. Dyson, she was awarded an attractive make-up box, a similar souvenir going to Miss Ocie McLean who held high guest score. Refreshments on pretty trays consisted of grapefruit salad, cream chicken in shells, crackers and hot tea were served.

The Six Hundred Club met with Mrs. Robert Gwin on Friday afternoon at her home in West End, with Mrs. John Groves, Mrs. W. Reedy Ellis and Miss Stella Doty in the seats of the absent members. Burning bush and trailing ivy in bowls brightened the living room where the tables were placed. The afternoon high score was held by Mrs. Walter Moore. Molded fruit salad, cheese sandwiches, oatmeal cookies, cookies, crackers and hot tea on refreshment trays were placed on the tables for the enjoyment of the guests after the games.

Early Morning Blaze At Owen's Residence

Monday morning about 6 o'clock a roof blaze threatened the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Owen. A call was made for aid of the fire department. The fire was soon extinguished although the fire fighters had trouble with water freezing on the roof that made it dangerous to get about on the structure. The blaze was attributed to sparks from the chimney and the roof was on fire in several places. Fortunately the blaze was on the south side of the structure as a strong north wind was blowing.

Sunday afternoon a call was made on the department to put out a grass fire on the residential property of Morris Lewis. The fire had gotten a good start and was nearing a barn on the place that was beginning to threaten the building.

"Design For Living" Coming Star Theatre

When seven accomplished artists collaborate on a motion picture the result ought to be gratifying, and it is, as revealed in Paramount's "Design for Living," which opens Monday at the Star Theatre.

The seven who contributed their great skill, enthusiasm and sophistication to the comedy drama are Fredric March, Gary Cooper, Miriam Hopkins, Edward Everett Horton, Director Ernst Lubitsch, Noel Coward, the playwright and Ben Hecht, who transcribed the play for the screen.

Adroitly conceived, brilliantly directed and acted with verve and understanding, "Design for Living," opens a new, broad field of screen literature, and it may be predicted that here is a plot that will be copied extensively as the next film cycle.

The story is unique and absorbing. An American girl falls in with two young musketeers of art in the Paris Latin Quarter. The men are life-long friends. A strange love affair is inevitable, and the principals resign themselves to whatever joys, jealousies and agonies may result from a three-cornered love.

But she crosses them both up by marrying a third man who offers her his heart and name. He, unfortunately, is too obsessed by his affairs to give her the love she needs, and when she realizes her mistake, she leaves her husband for her two musketeers.

No Jack-in-the-box surprises were ever applied more adroitly to motion pictures plot than those uncorked by the twinning threesome in "Design for Living." And the climax is a laughing bombshell, as anyone might expect of an Ernst Lubitsch-Ben Hecht adaptation.

After all his unique misgivings for turning his masterpiece over for motion picture entertainment, playwright Coward may now rest easily. For Paramount's offering matches in every particular the brilliance of the Broadway play.

The week end accompanied by Miss Edna Herrman. Miss Jane Levy arrived Tuesday to join her mother and sister on a visit here.

Mrs. B. Schur joined Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Schur on a visit to Memphis Sunday.

Miss Josephine McKie, of Picketts, was guest over the week end of Miss Mary Bell Stephenson.

Mrs. G. W. Brewton and children returned the past week from a visit to Mrs. N. L. Pogue at Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Gilliland, Mrs. George S. Beall and Mrs. J. H. Beall were Jackson visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Thompson and sons, Boyd and Baxter, motored to Magee Sunday to visit Miss Lockwood Thompson.

Daniel B. Watson, of Greenwood, and Malcolm Watson, of Jackson, were week end visitors in the parental home.

Misses Julia and Elizabeth Henrich were visitors and shoppers in the Capital City last Friday.

Miss Alice Gibson and Howard Ginn, of Greenwood, were visitors in the parental home the past week end.

Mrs. Claudia Hyman and Cecil Herrman spent the week end in Monroe, La., guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Masur.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Latham and Betty Jo spent the week end with Mrs. W. E. Peek at Morton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gwin, of Keirn, were Sunday guests in the home of their mother, Mrs. Sam Gwin.

Miss Alice Dalton Johnson came down the past week end from Ole Miss to spend holiday dates of mid term exams in the home of her parents, Senator and Mrs. H. H. Johnson.

Miss Mariana Kimbrough, faculty member of the Itta Bena school, spent the week end as guest of parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kimbrough.

Mrs. Rebecca Stackhouse of Kearney, N. J. is guest in the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Ash and J. L. McRae and family.

Rev. J. H. Kyzar attended a denominational meeting at Jackson Friday. He was accompanied by J. B. Parker of Ripley who joined Rev. Kyzar at Goodman.

Malone Carter Dies At Port Arthur, Texas

Funeral services were held at Ebenezer Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock for Malone Carter, 27, of Greenwood, who died at St. Mary's Hospital, Port Arthur, Texas, last Tuesday afternoon. J. J. Caswell, Baptist minister of Greenwood, conducted the last rites. Interment was made in the Ebenezer Baptist Cemetery.

Deceased was injured aboard the Steamship Commercial Guide, agented by Moore and McCormick at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning when he fell through an open hatch while the vessel was several miles out to sea steaming to Sabine. He received internal injuries, fracture of both arms and left leg following a fall of 40 feet, relatives were advised. The ship radioed to Port Arthur and a coast guard vessel met the Commercial Guide at sea and brought the injured man to Sabine Pass where he was carried to the hospital at Port Arthur. He was conscious at time of arrival but his condition grew worse, death occurring that afternoon. He was a seaman aboard the ship that had sailed from Boston. He had been with the steamship agency for 10 years.

Malone Carter was a native of Holmes county. His father, the late George Carter, died in 1914. He spent most of his boyhood in this county, living awhile at Greenwood where he attended school. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mittie Carter, and four sisters: Mrs. Gordon Ashley, Lexington; Mrs. G. F. Buie, Clarksdale; Misses Lennie and Tullia Carter, also a brother, Guy Carter, Greenwood, survive.

Negro Prowler Shows Up Again Sunday Nite

Sunday night about 8:30 o'clock, another prowler was discovered in the yard of Mrs. Lois Brady in West End. Miss Martha Shearer, who boards at the home was the only occupant of the house at the time. She summoned help and as the intruder ran from the premises, car lights were flashed along the street and the prowler was found to be a negro altho a view that would enable identification was not made. Officers were notified and a search of the neighborhood was made but no one was found. This is the second time that a prowler has been discovered in the yard within a month, the other visit being during Christmas week altho the visit was a bit later in the night.
